

Empanadas are crisp turnovers that can be filled with anything but we like ours with meat. Empanadillas, the smaller, pocket-size versions of empanadas, are generally served as tapas, and, because no silverware is required to eat them, make perfect party food.

Empanadillas - Small Pastries

Little cocktail pastries are excellent made with any leftover, unsweetened dough. Fresh dough does not take long to prepare and can be mixed the day before you wish. For that matter, the pastries can be baked hours in advance. Best hot or warmed over in a moderate oven, they are also good cold. The following recipe makes enough dough for about forty bite-size pastries or thirty tartlets.

Empanadilla Dough

- 1 ½ cups flour
- 1 egg
- 2 tbs. milk
- 2 tbs. olive oil
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt

Put flour on a board or marble slab, make a hole in the center, add all ingredients in the hole, and mix well with fingers. Roll into a ball and cover with a damp cloth. The dough must rest for 15 minutes before use; it can be kept in a cool place for 24 hours.

The refrigerator is a very good storage area for flour, but the use of a sealed container is even more important to prevent the flour from absorbing moisture as well as odors and flavors from other foods stored in the refrigerator.
