Beat the eggs and sugar until very thick and light. Sift the anise, flour, and baking powdered into it and folds in lightly but thoroughly. Bake 30 minutes, or until a cake tester comes out clean. Cool on a cake rack. Turn out and cut into pie-shaped wedges.

For a better-textured cake, you might want to consider using buttermilk instead of milk if your recipe calls for milk. Because buttermilk contains more acid than milk, remember to add ½ tsp. of baking soda for each cup of milk you use. If you don't have buttermilk on hand, you can make your own buttermilk by stirring 1 T. of lemon juice or vinegar into 1 cup of milk.
